

The Italian Securities and Exchange Commission (CONSOB) and the Einaudi Institute for Economics and Finance (EIEF) have established a series of joint seminars on "Financial Regulation". The series of nine seminars will be held at EIEF's headquarters located in Via Sallustiana, 62 in Rome.

The seventh seminar "Toxic arbitrage" will be held on Thursday, October 31, 2013, from 1 to 2:30 pm, by Prof. Roman Kozhan, Associate Professor of Finance at Warwick Business School.

The seminar will be introduced by Nadia Linciano (Head of CONSOB Economic Studies Unit) and Prof. Marco Pagano (EIEF Chairman and Professor of Economics at the University of Naples Federico II).

Please note that participation is free but registration is required due to space constraints. To confirm your attendance, please send an e-mail to info@eief.it, specifying the name of the participant and the affiliation. For registered attendees, sandwiches will be provided during the seminar.

For further information please see EIEF's website, www.eief.it, or contact Andrada Matei at 06-47924841 (andrada.matei@eief.it). In case of absence, please contact Valentina Fioramonti at 06-8477662.
